As LAC providers and DAC members are looking beyond ODA and are embracing more integrated and blended finance approaches to use ODA to mobilise private finance for sustainable development, there is a need to share knowledge on related policies and strategies, good practices and lessons learnt. Both groups can learn from each other, share knowledge and build on the mutual interest of making their own economies more resilient to shocks. 14:30-16:00	SESSION 3: New Pathways to Leverage Development Co-operation: How to Promote Social Inclusion in Partner Countries amid New Headwinds? The OECD's LAC Regional Programme has four thematic priority areas: social inclusion, governance, environmental sustainability and productivity. Each year, the focus is on a different priority. In 2024, the LACRP Ministerial meeting will focus on social inclusion, and will be hosted by Colombia in Bogota on 22 October 2024. Inequalities, in particular socio-economic and gender disparities in the labour market and in education, represent persistent obstacles to long-term, sustainable development. These issues have worsened in many regions following the COVID-19 pandemic. Current social protection mechanisms have proven to be inadequate, particularly in areas with high levels of informality. Against this backdrop, this session will centre on how financing and development co-operation policies can be leveraged towards the fight against poverty and inequalities. The discussions from this session are expected to contribute to the LACRP Ministerial meeting. The focus on inequalities and poverty also aligns with Brazil's commitment to prioritise the global fight against poverty and inequalities during its G20 presidency in 2024. ...
